

It was a hot and steamy afternoon on Friday at Walthamstow Academy. A student named Lemar was in his class and was close to getting an incident sheet. He was chewing furiously. He'd already been given community service. His friend told him to shut up. The class was so dead it was extinct. Lemar thought he would rather go back to nursery (If you know what I mean fam).

He'd already been out of the classroom once and that was what has got him into trouble. He wanted to explore and had found a door.

All the other doors had a sign, something that told you what was behind. But this one was different.

Every other door had a handle. But this one was different.

This door had no handle, only a small key hole. It had no sign.

When he returned to the classroom, his teacher was there to greet him. "LEMAR, YOU DO NOT HAVE THE AUTHORITY TO DECIDE WHEN YOU LEAVE THIS CLASSROOM". "Sorry Mrs Jones", mumbled Lemar in a quiet voice. He walked away and kissed his teeth. The teacher exploded. "AFTER SCHOOL. ONE HOUR"!

Three hours later, he was alone in the classroom cleaning. He cleaned the windows. He cleaned the desks. He cleaned all the furniture. He broomed under the cupboard. Dust came out. Pencils, pens, paper, rulers, chewing gum, socks, wrappers, football stickers. They all came out. Then something caught his eye. Something gold and shiny.

Instead of handing in the shiny gold thing he jacked it, then he legged it home. He told his dad it was a peak day at school. He ran upstairs and examined it, it was a key.

The next morning he went to school. He was told to leave the classroom again because of his ignorance. He was bored wandering in the corridor so he put his hand in his pocket and felt the key, he went to the unusual door. He unlocked it and entered.

His eyes flew wide open as he saw a row of other doors, all the same as the one he had just entered. He stared at the space warily and noticed another key. He tried to open the doors but none of them worked. He dropped the key on the floor and a trap door opened beneath his feet. He jumped backwards, convinced he also saw a shadow. He looked down into the obscurity beneath his feet. Suddenly, Lemar lost his balance. He screamed, shouting and flailing, "HELP ME, HELP ME"!

A hand shot out and grabbed him, "I've got you Lemar, don't worry I've got you!"

But sadly, both lost their balance and tumbled into the darkness....

They fell into a deep pit of sand as they tried to get out they fell into Bogeyman's house. They looked around and found him on his bed asleep.

After they found him he looked up at the mysterious characters next to him. As his eyes lit up he clocked that it was his best friend Tom.

Suddenly out of nowhere there came spirits that had been trapped in Bogey world.

Their cold hands gripped Tom's legs and grasped for help.

In the room he found a black and white cat. At first it looked like a normal cat but when he looked at it more closely the head was bigger than the body and his eyes were purple. Then suddenly it transformed into an ugly hideous monster.

All of a sudden the monsters friend came crawling out of the wooden tomb. A boy called Jordan Hailstone popped out and asked them if they would like to stay in his hiding place. The boy was just like Tom, who had found a key and got sucked in. They hid.

Tom and Lemar asked Jordan a lot of questions. He explained everything to them. Jordan was shivering and was petrified to the point where his knees knocked together. Jordan told Tom and Lemar that he was in form class one day sitting a detention. His teacher popped out for a moment and Jordan gradually became very bored. So, he decides to look through his teacher's drawers... very cheeky. Whilst looking around he smelt something revolting, his teacher, Mr. Matthews, kept his smelly PE socks in his drawers. PEEEEEEYEWWWWWW! The smell makes Jordan jump away from the desk, knocking over Mr. Matthew's pencil box. Jordan hears something heavy drop on to the floor and he saw something metallic. The light from the window in the classroom shone against the key blinding him. With no hesitation he pounces on the key. Jordan quickly picks up the mess on the floor and shoves the key into his trouser pocket. He hears Mr. Matthews coming and quickly ducks under the desk. Jordan sees Mr. Matthews feet through under the desk, Mr. Matthews opens the door and says 'that smells familiar, HEY what are THOSE socks doing in here?!?!' Mr. Matthews scans the room and realises that Jordan is missing. He quickly slams the door and goes looking for Jordan. Jordan pops out from under the desk and sees that the door had locked behind Mr. Matthews. Jordan grabs the key from his trouser pocket and tries to open the classroom door. The key works, Jordan gets a sudden sense of relief. He goes to walk into the hallway and the ground opens up underneath him. He wakes up and has no idea where he is...

Jordan finds himself in a blood curdling, hot abyss of doom. He sees a red figure, wandering around him, circling him. He feels scared, frightened, terrified. He feels like his heart is shattered, his spine is chilled. He starts to feel depressed.

He tells himself that he is brave enough to deal with what he thinks might be the devil. His awareness has started to become more vivid as he hurls himself up. He walks into a room and sees a halo, and realises that it is an angel flying through the window. The angel is his mum. As he gazes at the angel, something sneaks up and attacks him from behind. It's his little sister, she has come to wake him up from his dream.

When Jordan woke up, he found himself on the floor in detention with Mr Matthews standing over him, furious. He was found under the desk, and Mr Matthews didn't know that he had fainted. Mr Matthews turned around for a second, but when he looked back Jordan had disappeared...

BANG! BANG! BANG! Jordan's story, which he was telling to Tom and Lemar, was interrupted. All three are stuck in this room, hiding inside a tomb, which the Bogey monster is trying to break into. The boys are scrambling furiously to try to find a way out. They start running around and feel a few wobbly floorboards. Jordan gets down on his knees and sees a small red button and presses it out of desperation. Nothing happens, he looks to the sky and screams 'Please' then suddenly a trap door opens. All the boys jump into the trap door and realise they are in the teacher's staff room. They start searching furiously in the teacher's staff room for a way out. All the doors are locked! They can hear the thunderous steps of the Bogey man behind them. Jordan pulls the key out from his trouser's pocket, he sees a book with a lock on it. Miraculously, the key opens this book. They start flipping through the book hoping to find something, anything, ANSWERS! They find a small note in the back of the book. The note has a list of jibberish, they boys recite the words over and over again. The Bogey Man comes bursting towards them- they scream the words over and over and over. The Bogey Man vanishes. The boys look at each other and scream with joy. In the midst of their excitement Tom and Lemar start to shake furiously. 'Excuse Me Gentlemen, Excuse me!' 'This will be the LAST time to you fall asleep in Detention,' shouted their teacher. All the boys looked around the room at each other confused? Could it be, could this have all been just one crazy dream...
